Application for Education Developer in CSG

Dear Eugene Aves,

I am excited to apply for the Educational Developer role within CSG. Having thoroughly enjoyed my role as a casual academic at UNSW within the Schools of Computer Science and Mechanical & Manufacturing Engineering, I am eager to continue doing what I love in a full-time capacity where I can apply and expand the skills I have cultivated.

As a casual academic, I have developed and refined course content, planned curriculum, organised assignment marking, managed forums, and taught students. I am able to work autonomously to find and implement solutions, and I have provided strategic suggestions that have been implemented to improve course delivery.

My proficiency in Linux tools, programming, git, and cloud deployment has been pivotal in managing course-related technologies, particularly in migrating content delivery to GitHub Classrooms and automating processes for greater efficiency. My familiarity with the Microsoft Office Suite further complements the technical requirements of the role.

With my years of experience as a casual academic and a background in computer science, I am well-equipped to contribute to the Education Developer role. I am excited about the prospect of enhancing the student learning experience at UNSW and look forward to discussing how my skills align with the needs of the role.

Thank you for considering my application.

Sincerely,

Dan Huy Nguyen
